

SATURN

A WHOLE NEW WORLD
OF TELECOMMUNICATIONS

The Saturn is a new advanced telephone system with up to six external lines and 20 extensions. Designed and manufactured by Siemens, it is marketed exclusively in the UK by Norton Telecommunications and its specially selected dealer network.

The Saturn is ideal for those who work in a team. It is the perfect system for small businesses or for individual departments within a large company.

A compact multi-function telephone, the Saturn offers a high level of user-convenience and includes a wide range of attractive facilities.

Some examples:

- conference calls
- last number redial
- call waiting
- call hold
- do-not-disturb
- abbreviated dialling
- call forwarding
- call pickup
- "follow-me"

In short, the Saturn is a telephone system custom-designed to meet your communication requirements.

SATURN — The solution to your telephone problems

The telephone is the most widely used and most important means of communication. However some systems are not without faults. We've all tried to make a call and found the number busy. Or else couldn't make a call at all because all the external lines were busy. A waste of time and very irritating.

The Saturn saves both your time and spares your nerves. Saturn features last number redial, can store up to 50 telephone numbers, and can let you know which external lines are busy.

The SATURN

The new multi-purpose office telephone system

C all hold: If Saturn is connected to several external lines, you can alternate between parties, i.e. when several external connections exist concurrently, you can switch between them as frequently as you wish. There is no need to redial every time.

I nternal conference: During an internal telephone call other internal users can be connected and take part in the conversation.

D o-not-disturb: All telephones can be individually set to the "do-not-disturb" mode. External calls are then automatically forwarded.

C all pickup: Any user can pick up a call for another extension merely by pushing a button.

H andsfree calling: Your hands are free during the call via inbuilt microphone and loudspeaker and others present can also take part in the conversation.

T hree-party conference: Another colleague can participate in an external telephone conversation.

B ooking an outside line: When all outside lines are busy, the first line to become free can be reserved.

D ialling with handset on-hook: Your handset can be left "on-hook" during dialling and the called party can be heard over the station loudspeaker.

M aking the boss's life easier: An exclusive direct line lets his secretary manage her boss's calls. She can take calls and make calls at his request.

All the other Saturn facilities are also available to him and his secretary on this special hot line.

C all waiting: An interrupt tone can be activated when an urgent call is waiting to be connected to a busy extension.

M ultiple line answering: Where there are two or more external lines, other calls can be detected and taken over even when a call is in progress over one line.

C all diversion: The Saturn will re-direct your calls to another extension if you leave your office.

M usic-on-hold: Pleasant music over the phone makes waiting less disagreeable and lets you know that you haven't been forgotten.

L ast number redial: The number which was called last is automatically stored. In cases such as "busy", "absent" or when you realize just after hanging up that you missed an important point, just push a button and you get your call back without redialling.

The Saturn is a new advanced telephone system with up to six external lines and 20 extensions. Designed and manufactured by Siemens, it is marketed exclusively in the UK by Norton Telecommunications and its specially selected dealer network.

The Saturn is ideal for those who work in a team. It is the perfect system for small businesses or for individual departments within a large company.

A compact multi-function telephone, the Saturn offers a high level of user-convenience and includes a wide range of attractive facilities.

Some examples:

- conference calls
- last number redial
- call waiting
- call hold
- do-not-disturb
- abbreviated dialling
- call forwarding
- call pickup
- "follow-me"

In short, the Saturn is a telephone system custom-designed to meet your communication requirements.

SATURN — The solution to your telephone problems

The telephone is the most widely used and most important means of communication. However some systems are not without faults. We've all tried to make a call and found the number busy. Or else couldn't make a call at all because all the external lines were busy. A waste of time and very irritating.

The Saturn saves both your time and spares your nerves. Saturn features last number redial, can store up to 50 telephone numbers, and can let you know which external lines are busy.

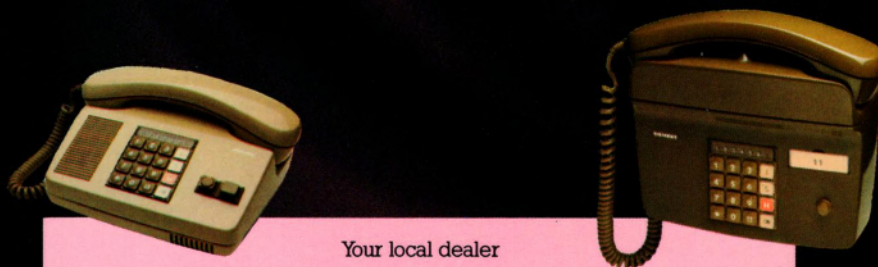

SATURN

The new multipurpose office telephone system.
The desk set is available with or without integrated handsfree equipment. There is also a space-saving wall telephone set,
and all types are available in brown or beige.

SATURN

External lines: 2 to 6
Extensions: 2 to 20

Your local dealer

Norton Telecommunications Limited
Norton House, Bilton Way Luton, Bedfordshire LU1 1UU
Telephone Luton (0582) 454545. Telex 826955