

PLAN 1

* Plan 1 consists of a main station and an internal extension telephone connected in parallel. Up to five such extensions may be provided on any installation. The main telephone has one press button for each extension provided but the extensions have none. Where more than four press buttons are required a separately mounted strip of buttons is provided.

Incoming calls ring the bell only at the main telephone.

The main can call any extension by press button.

Each telephone can call the exchange direct.

There is no secrecy between main and extension telephones.

Intercommunication between main and extensions is not provided.
